is available online at haas.berkeley.edu/annualreport.

Dear Fellow Alumni and Supporters,

I'm happy to report our record-breaking giving results for 2016. This year, we surpassed previous successes on numerous fronts: posting the highest number of donors overall, the highest one-day fundraising record during the second-annual Big Give in November 2015, and the most money given to the Haas Fund—$3.6 million—in a single year.

In our Annual Report of Giving, we showcase just some of the programs and people that the Haas Fund supports. The fund provides a crucial way for Berkeley-Haas to develop the initiatives that differentiate us from the competition and attract the best faculty and students as a result.

Gifts to the Haas Fund allowed us to hire nine of the brightest new faculty members whose research will advance our leadership in myriad fields, including public policy, management, marketing, operations and IT management, real estate, and accounting. We launched seed-fund grants to student entrepreneurs and strengthened entrepreneurial support in general. And we augmented online learning opportunities with "booster shot" videos featuring Haas faculty and distinguished speakers.

Together we are developing tomorrow's leaders, and they are redefining how the world does business. Thank you for taking the excellence of Berkeley-Haas to new heights.

Sincerely,

RICH LYONS, BS 82
DEAN, BERKELEY-HAAS

YOUR GIFTS TO BERKELEY-HAAS

For the second year in a row, the Haas School of Business broke records in fundraising with 7,265 individuals donating $35.9 million to the school.

As a top-ranked business school, the Haas School of Business is increasingly reliant on private support to maintain its excellence. Fortunately, Haas is known for producing leaders who think beyond themselves, as evidenced by the fact that each year more and more alumni, students, faculty, staff, and friends step forward to give back. This year was no exception with a record number of gifts and pledges to the school. One particularly exciting result was the completion of the fundraising for the new North Academic Building, set to open in 2017.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS

A top-tier business school requires top talent. Scholarships and fellowships allow Haas to attract the brightest students.

Every year Berkeley-Haas must compete with our heavily endowed private school peers for the best students, and new scholarships and fellowships go a long way to bridge this gap. In fact, financial support from another school is the top reason why students decline admission. This year, several alumni and friends invested in future business leaders by establishing new scholarships and fellowships at the Haas School of Business.

Joe Jimenez, MBA 84, and Denise Jimenez established the Jimenez Family Fellowship for MBA students. Takashi Kousaka, BS 99, and Saori Kousaka started a fellowship benefiting PhD students in honor of Professor Sumon Mazumdar. Tomek Ulatowski, MBA 73, is generously supporting MBA students from Poland and the Ukraine. Allan Spivack, MBA 79, created the Spivack Social Impact Fellowship for students pursuing a career in social impact. Diane Freeman honored her late husband with the John H. Freeman Fellowship (see page 11 for the story). And Neil Anderson, MBA 62, established the Neil P. Anderson scholarship to help undergraduates with financial need.

THE BIG GIVE

Berkeley-Haas broke its own one-day fundraising record during the second annual Big Give in November.

On November 19, UC Berkeley held the second Big Give—a one-day fundraising campaign reminding students, faculty, alumni, and staff to think big and give bigger to Berkeley. The Big Give held social media contests throughout the day featuring pets and babies on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram. And this year, Berkeley-Haas' own rock star dean, Rich Lyons, took to his guitar to get the word out. You can see his music video debut at haas.org/biggive-video.

THE HAAS FUND

This year, 4,682 alumni, students, faculty, staff, parents, and friends gave $3.6 million to the Haas Fund.

What do these numbers really mean to our school? Here is what your support helped us accomplish this year:

WE BROKE RECORDS. Collectively you gave a record $3.6 million (the most given in a single year) to the Haas Fund.

WE GAINED A COMPETITIVE EDGE. Haas hired nine new faculty and retained all three of the leading faculty who received competitive offers from other top schools.

WE LAUNCHED COMPANIES. We awarded ten early stage grants to startup companies of Haas students tackling issues such as diabetes, illiteracy, and drought.

WE MADE DISCOVERIES. Haas faculty published research findings showing that bigger muscles make people think you are a stronger leader, entrepreneurship isn't as financially risky as previously thought, people on large teams inflate the amount of their own contributions, and women have an edge in crowdfunding.

WE SHARED KNOWLEDGE. We created a place for you to enjoy hundreds of videos and articles highlighting the latest thought leadership at haas.berkeley.edu/insights.

WE ALTERED TRAJECTORIES. Your gift is the first step along a new path for many of our students. Thanks to you, we are creating new opportunities for some of the brightest young people today.

WE ARE LEADING THE WAY. As a culture-driven business school we stand for something different. We are creating leaders who question the status quo, have confidence without attitude, are students always, and think and act beyond themselves.

REUNION CAMPAIGNS

Undergraduate alumni come home to Berkeley-Haas

School pride and tradition run deep at Berkeley—after all, Cal is home to the oldest college football rivalry in the West. So it is no surprise that thousands of undergraduate alumni return to Berkeley each year to celebrate Homecoming, cheer on the Golden Bears, and stroll down memory lane.

Alumni spent Homecoming weekend catching up with old friends, listening to lectures from Haas faculty, taking in the sights and sounds of Berkeley, and remembering how much they were transformed by their undergraduate experiences. Surrounded by nostalgia, a new tradition has formed in recent years—alumni join together to honor their memories with a special reunion gift. This year, 589 undergraduate alumni from the reunion classes of 1955 to 2015 gave $1,859,690 to Berkeley-Haas in celebration of their reunion.

Undergraduate reunion campaigns run from January 1, 2015 – December 31, 2015

MBA alumni reunite in Memorial Stadium

Each spring, MBA alumni come home to Berkeley and relive the best memories of their Haas experience. In April, the Haas School of Business welcomed back hundreds of alumni at Berkeley-Haas Reunion Weekend for three days of lectures, tours, and class socials. The signature reunion event was held in the exclusive club levels of Memorial Stadium where alumni mixed and mingled with panoramic views of the Bay Area as the backdrop.

The tradition of reunion giving is not lost among the MBA classes, and 788 MBA alumni from the classes of 1971 to 2015 donated $650,341 to Berkeley-Haas. Special thanks to the many class volunteers who rallied their classmates to donate back to the school during the reunion.

MBA Reunion campaigns run from July 1, 2015 – June 30, 2016

A NEW WAVE OF THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

New assistant professors diversify and enrich Haas' intellectual future

Berkeley-Haas maintains its status and reputation in part because of the faculty we retain and hire. And in FY16, thanks to donor support, we again attracted many of the best up-and-coming researchers to join our ranks as assistant professors. They earned their PhDs at some of the world's most prestigious institutions, including Harvard, MIT, and the University of Chicago, and their research, from studying the impact of development aid on conflict to the effects of closing local bank branches, will enrich the school's thought leadership in a wide range of disciplines.

Conrad Miller, fresh from a postdoc at Princeton, studies labor markets and is working on a study of job suburbanization and black employment.

Juliana Schroeder, who has a PhD in psychology and business, recently published a paper showing that the bigger the teams, the more individual team members over-claim their contributions.

Former Wharton Asst. Prof. Jonathan Kolstad is eager to be a part of Haas' teaching excellence. "I wanted the opportunity to teach at a smaller business school where students want to understand complex industries and improve the way they work, both for profit and to do good," he says.

The new faculty, said Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Chair of the Faculty Andrew Rose, will enhance the school's rich research and teaching ecosystem. "We are simply delighted to welcome such a promising group of young talent."

New faculty members and just one of their areas of expertise. Clockwise from left: Conrad Miller (labor markets), Yiannis Papanastasiou (crowdsourcing), Hoai-Luu Nguyen (local credit markets), Raul Sanchez de la Sierra (political economy of development), Juliana Schroeder (social cognition), Jonathan Kolstad (incentives and motivation), Ellen Evers (judgment and decision making), Omri Even Tov (corporate bond market), and Mathijs de Vaan (network analysis).

INVESTMENT IN HAAS FUND FURTHERS OUR MISSION

"There would be no TubeMogul without Haas," says Brett Wilson, MBA 07, the advertising software company's co-founder and CEO. Wilson met his co-founder, John Hughes, MBA 07, at Haas and used school resources and the Haas network to launch TubeMogul. Which is why Wilson gave a generous, unrestricted gift of stock to the Haas Fund. "We have strong and inspired leadership at Berkeley-Haas, and I believe in the school," Wilson says. "I wanted my gift to be used however our leadership sees fit to best progress our mission unencumbered by the constraints that we have with other revenue sources."

ONLINE OFFERINGS STIMULATE THE BUSINESS SENSES

Lifelong learning is just one alumni benefit that thrives thanks to the Haas Fund. New video learning opportunities posted on haas.berkeley.edu/insights include Prof. Don Moore's booster shots on HR decision making and Prof. Cam Anderson's "Five Interpersonal Styles Critical to Influence" from his popular Power and Politics in Organizations course at Haas. Some of the videos are publicly available; others require a Calnet ID.

SEEDING STUDENT INGENUITY

New seed fund grants for student entrepreneurs demonstrate the power of giving to the Haas Fund

Shahidah Abdul Rashid, MBA 17, knows how difficult diabetes can be. Her father has struggled with modifying his lifestyle to manage the disease and has suffered serious health complications. So she was especially motivated to co-design an app, called D!, that assists Type 2 diabetes patients by providing meal options at restaurants.

Thanks to the new Dean's Startup Seed Fund, a $5,000 grant D! received is just enough to get the concept off the ground. The $100,000 fund, established last fall from the Dean's Initiatives Fund, provides grants to early stage startups that include Berkeley-Haas students.

Abdul Rashid and her teammates, Howard O, MBA 17, and three fellow Berkeley students, are using the money for prototyping and testing. Other seed fund projects have included drones to create precipitation in drought-ridden areas, a wearable hand sanitizer, and a platform connecting consumers with farmers and food producers.

The grants are part of a larger effort by Berkeley-Haas to strengthen entrepreneurship support for all of its students. Berkeley-Haas will pool a variety of school-wide resources to integrate entrepreneurial thinking throughout the Haas student experience under a new umbrella organization: the Berkeley-Haas Entrepreneurship Program (BHEP).

"Our student entrepreneurs are already thriving within the Berkeley-Haas and Bay Area startup ecosystem," says Dean Rich Lyons, BS 82. "This new effort will continue to build on and expand that success, creating a new generation of leaders who will be mixing with alumni and giving back to the entrepreneurial ecosystem."

Team D!, whose app provides a mobile solution for dining out with diabetes, received a $5,000 grant from the Dean's Startup Seed Fund, powered by the Haas Fund. The app also won the 2015 Hack2Health competition, UC Berkeley's hackathon focused on digital health.

THE ANNIVERSARY GIFT THAT KEEPS GIVING

Howard and Patti Lee Wang, BS 97s, met their first semester at Haas, when the current campus opened. "You definitely felt more of a community in the Haas buildings," says Howard, managing director at Ares Management. Adds Patti: "And seeing someone's name on everything was a reminder that it was built on the philanthropy of others." The couple, ardent supporters of public education, marked the 20th anniversary of their meeting with a $100,000 gift to the North Academic Building. A break-out room will be named after them.

MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP SUPPORTS ENTREPRENEURSHIP RESEARCH

Haas PhD students now benefit from an endowed fellowship honoring the life of John H. Freeman, the founding faculty director of the Lester Center for Entrepreneurship and a professor within the school's Organizational Behavior and Industrial Relations Group, who died in 2008. Freeman was a pioneer in the field of organizational ecology and its impact on innovation. "John always loved his research and he liked working with his grad students on their projects," says his widow, Diane Freeman. "I'm hoping this gift will continue the success of the program and encourage more students to participate."

VALUED CONNECTOR

Lucky Sandhu draws the Berkeley-Haas community together

Lucky Sandhu, BS 96, EMBA 15, knows how to facilitate the meaningful connections that characterize the Berkeley-Haas network. He has served on the Berkeley-Haas East Bay Chapter Board of Directors since 2007, leading the group as co-president from 2009 to 2011 and helping execute the popular "Taste of Haas" events. During his tenure, the chapter won "Chapter of the Year" twice.

As an executive MBA student, Sandhu built out cross-collaboration between the undergraduate and EMBA student communities, enhancing the student experience.

He has also been an annual leadership donor to the Student Gift Campaign's Beyond Yourself Challenge Match and has served as the keynote speaker at undergraduate orientation. For his dedication, Sandhu was awarded Berkeley-Haas' highest volunteer honor, the Raymond E. Miles Service Award, in 2015.

Professionally, Sandhu is co-founder and president of Reliance Financial, a premier mortgage brokerage based in San Ramon, California. In 2010, he received the San Ramon Chamber of Commerce Business Person of the Year award.

Berkeley-Haas is grateful to the many alumni who volunteer and promote Haas around the world.

Lucky Sandhu, BS 96, EMBA 15, the recipient of the 2015 Raymond E. Miles Service Award, with Dean Rich Lyons, BS 82
